

IT CONSULTING AND MANAGEMENT

Information Technology is the heart of business. It makes collaboration in an organization possible and is the core of a successful business. When IT Resource is involved with your IT project, construction, expansion, or upgrade, we guarantee success based on our planning, project management, and execution.

The goal of our high level consulting practice is to make sure that your Information Technology needs and requirements mesh seamlessly with your business goals. Since its inception, IT Resource has been a trusted advisor to our customers. We take this responsibility very seriously and strive to ensure our clients are given the knowledge and leadership they need to grow their businesses and have successful IT projects. While our focus is around Information Technology systems, our vast experience includes an array of design and build projects.

Plan It Right From the Ground Up

IT Resource provides a unique perspective to any project. With a clearly defined and well documented design plan, we can limit construction cost overruns and change orders, and bring the project to completion on time and within budget. Our construction design and build consulting provides clearly defined and documented build plans along with the project management services you need throughout the construction project. We will carefully define the requirements with the owner, create the bid specifications and work with the general contractor, vendors and subcontractors throughout the project to insure a successful project. We plan it right from the ground up by implementing a sound design plan.

Construction Design/Build Consulting

If you're building from the ground up, it is vital to have IT representation from the beginning. This helps guarantee a seamless install, maximizing IT functionality down the road. We offer a variety of design and build consulting services such as owner's representation, design specification development, RFP management, construction project management, and systems implementation.

Our Experience

Over the years, IT Resource has provided consultative and project management services for a vast array of projects with the focus on technology. Not only do we specialize in IT Consulting, but also project management, owner's representation, and we act as design/build consultants. Our projects include the building of a 209' yacht, multiple $10+ million construction projects, company expansions, multiple data center build designs, and multiple casino construction projects.
